Defensive Positions East of Golden Hill Useless to Russians and Fall of City Seems Near—Another of Czar's Ships Strikes a Mine.

OSHIKOTO, Aug. 24.—The Russian forts east of Golden Hill, at the entrance of Port Arthur, have been silenced by the Japanese armored cruisers Yamato and Kangaro. This news, ominous in the extreme for the heroic stronghold, comes from a source which is reliable and is generally credited.

A telegram from Tokyo says the Russian battleship Sevastopol was sunk by the Japanese land positions yesterday from outside the harbor. A Russian officer who shot a mine. She retired to the harbor with a heavy list to starboard and with bows submerged.

A dispatch report says the Russian cruiser Askold and the torpedo boat Grosvoroff have not been disarmed, although the extension of time granted to them expired at noon yesterday.

The Grosvoroff is in perfect condition. It is believed that both of the vessels will make an attempt to leave the harbor, and the Japanese Consul has asked the Tsois to warn the Chinese cruiser and forts at Wushung to prevent this.

TIME GRANTED TO RUSSIAN SHIPS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The State Department has been advised that the Japanese has extended the time for repairs on the Russian ships in the harbor to noon of Aug. 25.

ROBBED OF $5,000 ON JERSEY ROAD

The thieves are caught anywhere near them a lynching will be prevented with great difficulty.

The O'Rourke Company is building the new reservoir, and the large amount which the job entails has made it impossible for salary payments more often than once every two weeks. Mr. White has been making these payments every second Wednesday, drawing the money early in the day from a bank in New York and carrying it out to the reservoir in a buggy. Mr. White has two companions on the buggy trip from Little Falls to Cedar Grove, not because he has ever anticipated trouble, but because his superiors have thought it to guard the large sums he carries in this way.

For a long time Mr. White went on these drives heavily armed. His companions also carried guns, but gradually they relaxed their vigilance until all gave up their weapons. It seemed absurd to fear anything along a quiet and much traveled path as the old Natch Road. So far as any one knows there has never been a house robbery in the vicinity, and the only persons supposed to know about the money carried on these semi-regular trips are the men at the reservoir, all of whom have worked a long time for the O'Rourke Company, and in whom the bosses have the greatest confidence, in spite of the fact that they are of every nationality, from Irish and Italians to negroes.

ESCORT WAITING FOR HIM.

Mr. White left New York early to-day with his satchel of wealth. He took the train to Little Falls, where he found his companions for the drive waiting for him. They were C. H. Eldrich and H. S. Taft, two employees of the construction company, who have made the same trip many times before. The three men greeted each other pleasantly and then got into the buggy that was waiting. Mr. White, following his usual custom, placed his satchel under the seat and took the reins.

The first mile of the journey was without incident. The party exchanged greetings with a number of pedestrians along the road and everything seemed to be all right. About a quarter of a mile further along, however, the road runs through a little patch of wood which is thickly grown with underbrush near the road. The buggy had not gone more than a hundred feet into the shade of the woods when four men suddenly jumped out of the underbrush. Three of them were Italians, but they evidently wanted to conceal that as much as possible, for they had their coats pulled turned up and each man wore a pair of heavy blue goggles, making any certainty of their features impossible. The fourth man wore a mask which concealed his face entirely, but from his general make up and his conduct two things were evident; first, that he was the leader of the desperate enterprise, and, second, that he was an American.

The men made their intentions plain without delay. They centred their rifles pointed at the man in the carriage and held their places for the middle of the road. Mr. White's first sensation was one of great anger that anybody should attempt to hold him up on a public highway. He jerked up the horse and demanded to know what the men meant by their conduct. The men vouchsafed no answer. Instead two of them lowered their guns and blazed away at the unfortunate horse, which fell dead. Then the American stepped to the side of the carriage and in a hoarse voice said:

DEMANDED SATCHEL OF MONEY.

"Where's the money?"

"What money?" asked Eldrich, who was feeling for a revolver which he had slipped in his pocket that morning, the first time he had armed himself for the trip for a long time.

The thief saw the move and clouted Eldrich across the back of the head.

"Get out!" he said sternly, and Eldrich got out. Taft, who had no weapon, followed, and under the nose of each man a gun was thrust. Then the leader turned his black-masked face to White.

"Get out, you!" he said; but White refused to budge. One of the other men prodded him from behind, and in a burst of sudden anger White jumped at him. Quick as a flash the man in the mask raised the butt end of the gun and struck White across the head with it. It was a terrific blow, and the paymaster fell like a log to the ground.

The three Italians grouped the men and backed off, still keeping them covered. Then the leader threw aside the top of the seat, took out the satchel and opened it. He gave an exclamation of satisfaction when he saw the contents, quickly closed the satchel again and calling off his men started to back up the road. His last words to the unfortunate trio was that any attempt to follow would be met with a volley.

Neither Eldrich nor Taft made any attempt to follow the men. They were too much concerned about Mr. White. They got some water from a nearby stream and soon brought him back to consciousness. When he found that the money was gone he was furious and insisted upon his companions leaving him to spread the alarm.

A short distance up the road Eldrich found a telephone and sent word to the police. He asked that the police keep a close watch for the thieves, giving as good a description of them as he could to Capt. Bimmon. Capt. Bimmon turned out all his reserve force, chased his detectives out along the Natch Road and wired the alarm in every direction. He then sent men out to bring Mr. White and his companions to Paterson at once so they could give better descriptions of the men and be on hand to look over any evidence that was arrested.

Mr. White finally reached Paterson, where his injury was dressed. It was found that his wound was painful, but not serious.

London and Stanley. I sat down in one of the stone recesses and for a considerable length of time the great bridge went round and round. Dean Stanley, of Westminster, wore a hat of his first visit to America, a expression of amazement which only those could efface. He was at once seized by the reporters, who asked him questions. "What was the time which most impressed you in America?" was one of them. Without a moment's hesitation, Dean Stanley replied: "My own ignorance."

IRISH NOTABLES ARE IN THE CITY

Monster Reception Committee Went Down the Bay to Meet the Parliamentary Party Aboard the Teutonic.

JOHN E. REDMOND BRINGS HIS BEAUTIFUL WIFE.

Leading Irish-Americans Are Gathering for the Great Con- vention of the United Irish League of America.

The Irish parliamentary delegates to the convention of the United Irish League to be held in the Lexington Avenue Opera-House next Tuesday and Wednesday, arrived on the Teutonic late this afternoon.

A revenue cutter carrying about fifty of the most prominent Irishmen in this city and some visitors from other cities went down the bay to meet them.

The courtesy of the port was extended to the visitors through the agency of Collector Stranahan, and they were taken off in the cutter and landed at the Government pier at the Battery, from which they proceeded to the Hoffman House.

The visiting Irish statesmen are headed by John E. Redmond, member for Waterford City, leader of the Irish party and the ablest and most popular man in Ireland, who is accompanied by his beautiful and accomplished wife, the great personal prize he won in Australia during his successful tour of that land of the antipodes, when he raised $50,000 for the Irish Parliamentary war fund and brought back the promise of this beautiful lady to be his wife.

Leading Men Go Down the Bay. The others of the party are Capt. A. J. C. Donelan, M. P. for East Cork; Hon. C. O'Brien, M. P. for Kilkenny City, and Hon. Conor O'Kelly, M. P. for North Mayo, composing the Irish representatives at the convention of the United Irish League of America, which will meet in Lexington Avenue Opera-House Aug. 30 and 31, when Irishmen will gather from all quarters of the earth.

Among those who went down the bay with the boarding officer were John Finerty, of Chicago, President, and John O'Callahan, of Boston, Secretary, who represent the national body, representatives of the national body, and a committee representing the various organizations composing the United Irish League of Greater New York, and delegates from Boston, Hartford, New Haven, Philadelphia, Jersey City, Newark and other cities.

The "boarding party" will be under the "boarding party" was under a brother of Redmond's, Edward O'Flaherty, who died recently.

Among the general reception committee are Michael E. Corboy, Eugene A. Philbin, Mr. Mooney, Gen. J. R. O'Brien, Robert O'Flaherty, John J. Joyce, T. St. John, Gen. Patrick Finerty, John J. Daly, Harry G. Bannan, J. O'Donovan Rossa, William Byrne, David Mackey, Stephen McFarland, Capt. James Mitchell, Col. Thomas F. Lynch, T. J. Fitzsimmons, T. J. O'Connell, P. Kavanagh, John Lynch, Bernard Baxter, M. E. Breslin, R. J. Kennedy, J. P. Brennan, Leslie McInerney, Thomas A. McInerney, James Jennings, E. W. Dolphin, Michael B. Stanton, Robert O'Sullivan, P. J. Cody, Michael Corboy, Daniel V. Clancy and Park Commissioner Feltus.

Ladies to Honor Mrs. Redmond. The visitors will be quartered at the Hoffman House, where they will be during the next week or more, and where there will be a succession of interesting events.

Chief among these will be a presentation of Mrs. Redmond's portrait, which is the esteem in which she is held by a committee of ladies from the various societies of Irish women in New York, including the Daughters of the Society of Ladies of Mayo, Waterford and the United Irish League and the Ancient Order of Hibernians and other organizations.

MOTHER STOPPED CARRYING OFF CHILD

Trenton Crowd Interferes with New York Woman Who Sought Her Child in the Keep- ing of Others.

(Special to The Evening World.)

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 24.—Mrs. Gertrude Rice, of New York, made an attempt to carry off her child, Lily Rice, from the street today, but a crowd interfered and prevented the mother from putting her into a cab in waiting.

In the excitement the little girl fell to the sidewalk and was trampled, but not seriously injured. Mrs. Rice threatened legal proceedings to recover the girl, who she says was stolen by an aunt in New York. It was decided to take Lily to the police station, where she will be held until her aunt can be located and will not give her up.

SHEEPSHEAD DEMOCRATS.

They Adopt Resolutions Pledging Club to Support McCarran.

Four hundred members of the Parker and Davis Club, of the Thirty-eighth Election District of the Seventh Assembly District, met last night in their headquarters, Coney Island Avenue and Avenue U, to discuss the election of a delegate to the county ticket in the coming year. The resolutions were passed in regard to the death of Thomas O'Rourke, a member of the club, who was shot by a member of the club as a Democrat was elected to Senator McCarran was elected.
